

Directions to our Premises

By Road from the South

Visitors from the south and west are advised to find the A414 dual-carriageway and to approach through the village of Hunsdon.

Hunsdon is clearly signposted from the A414 between the towns of Harlow and Hertford. From the junction, head north along “Church Lane”. (Your Sat-Nav might think the road is called Eastwick Road, but this was actually changed to Church Lane in 2007.) You will pass St Dunstan’s church (on the right just as the speed limit becomes 40mph) and then the Rectory (on the left approximately 0.9 miles further along the same road, which becomes Acorn Street).

Widford is reached by continuing to the end of Acorn Street and turning right at the T-Junction by the War Memorial. After just over a mile, in Widford village itself, there is another T-Junction (just after a traffic calming device which narrows the road – you have priority over oncoming traffic). Turn left here, past Widford School (through a pair of traffic-calming devices which narrow the road). The church is clearly visible on the righthand side of the road after about quarter of a mile.

By Road from the North and East

Widford is to the south and west of Bishop’s Stortford. Most of the journey is on country lanes, but there are not many junctions.

First, follow the signs to Much Hadham (travel on the B1004). When the road comes to an end at a T-junction, turn left and proceed south through the main road through Much Hadham (still the B1004) and into Widford. The entrance to Widford village is marked by 30mph speed limit signs and an incline where the road narrows. When the road widens again, it bears to the right and heads out past Widford School (through a pair of traffic-calming devices which narrow the road). The church is clearly visible on the righthand side of the road after about quarter of a mile. Parking is on the roadside.

Directions to our Premises

From the North:

Turn off the A10 at the first Ware exit signposted Ware A1170, Wadesmill and Thundridge (a short exit lane and a tight bend). At the roundabout, turn right towards Ware and follow this road to the next roundabout. At this, go straight on by taking the second exit (the first exit is to a car park) and proceed carefully down the High Street to the next roundabout at the bottom of the road. Take the first exit at this roundabout. Follow directions from "From Ware" below.

From Ware:

Follow the road for about 2 miles through the countryside to Wareside. (If you need one, there is a petrol station on the right after about 600 yards – i.e. as you leave Ware.)

You will pass through the village of Wareside – please drive slowly; the road is narrow, there are tight bends and there are no pavements for pedestrians. The road out of Wareside is a long straight stretch which passes over a gentle hump backed bridge and ends with a pair of tight double bends. The road sometimes floods here – be careful in wet weather!

Widford Church is clearly visible on the left just at the village boundary. Parking is on the roadside or in the laybys you will have just passed.

The Rectory is in Hunsdon

From the South, West and North:

Hunsdon is clearly signposted from the A414 between the towns of Harlow and Hertford. From the junction, head north along "Church Lane". (Your Sat-Nav might think the road is called Eastwick Road, but this was actually changed to Church Lane in 2007.)

The Rectory is approximately 1.6 miles along the same road, which becomes Acorn Street (SG12 8PB). After the first housing settlement (including cream, grey and pink cottages and a dangerous narrow bit!), the road appears to continue into open countryside again. Then the speed restriction changes to 30mph as you reach the "Hunsdon" village sign. The Rectory is 150m further on the left-hand side. The driveway is slightly concealed but is opposite Wicklands Road (which is obvious on the right-hand side of the road). The Rectory is the modern house up the right-hand fork of the drive, not the giant Old Rectory to the left.

From the North and East:

Follow the directions to Widford (above), but where the B1004 widens after the incline and bears to the right, the road to Hunsdon (the B180) goes straight ahead (through a traffic-calming measure which narrows the road, giving priority to oncoming vehicles).

Follow the B180 south out of Widford as it winds into Hunsdon (not far) and continue on this road through the village past the school (left), garage (right) and village pump (left) before turning left into Acorn Street immediately after the Crown public house.

The Rectory is on the right approximately 150 yards from the junction. It is the modern house up the right-hand fork of the drive, not the giant Old Rectory to the left (SG12 8PB).
